

STANDARD OIL STILL STUNNED

No Real Hint As To What Course They Will Pursue Regarding Landis Fine.

PRICE OF OIL WILL NOT ADVANCE

This Is The Statment Sent Out From New York This Morning--General Approval Of The Verdict.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 5.—Beyond official word that the price of Standard Oil products will not be advanced as a result of Judge Landis' decision of Saturday, no definite news has been handed out for publication relative to what possible course the great trust will pursue.
It is certain that the decision will be appealed to the supreme court, but the attorneys still have several days in which to file their notice of appeal. It will then probably be in the highest court in the land for some years before a final decision is given and may be delayed even longer by legal quibbles.
No Raise in Prices
Charles M. Pratt, secretary of the Standard Oil, when asked for a statement this morning that the trust would raise the price of the products said that his company had no intention of advancing any prices owing to the recent decision.
Smith's Report
It is known here that the report of Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations, on the development and status of the oil business as it is related to and affected by the Standard Oil company was placed in President Roosevelt's hands today.
Held Responsible
It is known that the commission holds the so-called oil trust as responsible through its domination of the field and market for the prices that have prevailed for the past twenty-five years. It is said that in the opinion of the commission the corporation has used unfair and foul means to control the market and that prices would have been less if they had not been in a monopoly combine.

THREE HUNDRED YEARS OF AMERICAN SHIPBUILDING

Week's Carnival In Celebration Of Event Inaugurated At Bath, Maine, And Other Cities Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Bath, Me., Aug. 5.—Bath and the neighboring towns and villages at the mouth of the Kennebec river today donned holiday attire and otherwise made ready for a week's carnival in observance of the three hundredth anniversary of American shipbuilding. For the celebration of which preparations have been going forward for months past, it was nearly at Popham beach, settled by Sir George Popham in 1607, where colonists built the first American vessel and launched it upon the Kennebec.
This first American vessel was the pinnace Virginia, and who was not much of a craft in comparison with the vessels of today. But in those days, with scarcely a nail to work with and the builders put to extremes to find the iron for bands and the tools wherewith to fashion the timber, the completion of the vessel was regarded as a great achievement. The Virginia was about 60 feet in length and in modern measurement would register about forty tons. She made several voyages between Jamestown and London.
After the construction and departure of the Virginia it was nearly seventy years before the keel of another vessel was laid on the shores of the Kennebec. Then Sir William Phillips established a yard at Woolrich. So the industry grew and flourished. The building of ships has been the principal industry of Bath for 150 years and hundreds of splendid craft have been put afloat during that time, the tonnage amounting to over 1,000,000 since the time of establishment of the government record in 1782. Once the forests of Maine provided every stick of timber used in the craft built along the Kennebec. Today only the most unimportant structures and canchions are found in the wilderness of the south. While there is no such activity in the yards as prevailed up to fifteen or twenty years ago, Bath is still busy and the prospect is bright.
The celebration which began today will take up the greater part of a week, and not only will include exercises and demonstrations to be held in this city, but also at Popham beach where the industry was created and gradually moved along until it reached Bath, where it continued to remain, making the place famous as the birthplace of more vessels than any other city or town in the United States.

Many of the most distinguished members of both branches of congress have accepted invitations to take part in the celebration, together with the governors of several of the New England states, and a number of other notables. This evening the opening literary exercises are to be held at the Alameda, with an historical address by the Hon. Charles E. Allen. Band concerts will be given in the park, and the shores of the Kennebec will be illuminated by bonfires, while the visiting warships and all other vessels in the harbor will be illuminated.
Tomorrow the warships will be open for the inspection of visitors. There will also be a program of land and water sports. In the afternoon Governor Cobb and staff will arrive, with other visitors of note. A monster banquet to the distinguished guests is to be given in the evening, and following this Senator Harold M. Newhall will deliver an address upon the American ship. There will also be a display of fireworks and band concerts.
An automobile review is scheduled for Wednesday morning, with a big carnival parade in the afternoon. The evening is to be given over to a water carnival in which over 200 yachts and launches are expected to take part. The celebration on Thursday will be shifted to Popham beach, where the little ship Virginia was built. Here will be held the great clambake and on the site of Port St. George, the colonists' first fortification, which has recently been staked out according to diagrams left by the original settlers, will be held appropriate historical exercises. The principal address will be delivered by President James P. Baxter of the Maine Historical society.

Friday, the concluding day of the celebration, will be given over to receptions to the naval officers, both on shore and aboard ship, and there will be a general exchange of courtesies among all the guests and the officials who have the celebration in charge.
Already the city is rapidly filling with visitors and the indications point to the biggest crowd ever seen here. In addition to the population of the surrounding country and the invited guests from other sections it is expected that the visitors will include many notables who are spending the summer at the various resorts along the Maine coast.

CHAUTAUQUA HAS CLOSED SEASON

A MOST SUCCESSFUL SESSION ENDED ON SUNDAY EVENING.

THE RECEIPTS WERE LARGE

Program Next Year Will Be Bigger, Better and More Elaborate Than Ever—Entirely New Features.

Over 3,000 people attended the services at the Chautauqua Sunday, the last day of the most successful season
in the history of the Janesville Champaign. As predicted by the management, Sunday was the largest day of the Chautauqua, which has been the attraction for hundreds of Janesville people the past ten days and scores of out of town people. Between 3,000 and 4,000 people visited the grounds
yesterday, there being about 250 tents on the grounds in the afternoon which was an indication of the popularity of the Chautauqua with the people living in this vicinity. About 50 persons camped through the entire season
of ten days.

New Program Next Year.
 Several numbers on this year's program have appeared at the local assembly in previous years but Manager
H. M. Holbrook has emphatically announced that 1908's program will consist of speakers, singers and performers never before heard on a Janesville platform. "Hurry Up Hurry" has been declared to the world at large that he is going out of the trust and next year
he will have a combination of his own. It will be a trust composed of H. M. Holbrook, "Hurry Up Hurry,"
"Hustling Harry & Co.," all in one.
For the coming Chautauqua next year promises of about 500 season tickets were made during one of the inter-missions Sunday afternoon, but at least 200 more guarantees for season tickets will have to be made before the 1908 Chautauqua is a reality. Secretary Reeder declares, though, that 700 season tickets will be contracted for by the end of this week. In the neighborhood of 700 season tickets were promised for this year's Chautauqua
but nearly 200 prospective buyers refused to renounce when the money was called for by the management
several weeks ago.

Was a Success.
 Financially the Chautauqua has been a success, the management thinks, but the amount of the balance or deficit will not be determined until late this afternoon or possibly tomorrow. In comparison with last year the Champaign that closed last night was more expensive. The talent cost $170 more this year than it did in 1906 and the running expenses of the grounds amounted to nearly $150 more this year than last. However, season tickets sold this year for a year ago but in spite of this fact the total receipts of the recent assembly will aggregate in the neighborhood of ten per cent more than the sum taken in last year. The attendance was one-tenth larger this year than last, too.

Have Temperance Day in 1908.
 It is the plan of the management to have a temperance day at next year's assembly and have one of the country's leading temperance lecturers here for that day. It is possible that the Rock County Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold their annual convention on that day also, thus making Temperance day one of the attractions of the coming Chautauqua.
A conference was held last evening with C. T. U. women and Manager Holbrook when the matter was talked over.

Yesterday's Program.
 Sunday's program was a most interesting one and the hundreds of people who have made their way to Mohon-Grove these three days and stood in crowded cars or boats felt well repaid for the inconvenience endured to hear the numbers. The church services held in the morning were led by the Rev. H. V. Adams and were attended by over a thousand people. The Dixies, a male quartet with two women soloists, pleased the large audience
both Saturday afternoon and Sunday.
Their sacred concert given last evening was superb. Encores were called for by the applause after each number which the colored people responded to with pleasure. They rendered concerts Saturday afternoon and evening and were on the program for the three sessions Sunday. The Dixies their recent appearance at the as-

one more as a splendid bunch of en-

Miss Miller.
 Miss Gertrude Goodwin Miller won popular favor with the crowds present Saturday afternoon and evening, and Sunday afternoon. She read the "Gypsy Girl of Paris" Saturday afternoon, "Sunday," and "The Coming Out of Miss Cummins" by request, in the evening, and "The Shattered Palm,"
"A Little Child Shall Lead Them," and the "German Legend of the Forget-me-not" Sunday afternoon. All her readings were of the highest class of impersonation. In each piece she portrayed the character, entirely forgetting herself with such ease that one was led to believe through slightly prejudiced eyes that she was the real Gypsy girl or Miss Cummins. Miss Miller will always receive good patronage from local audiences upon future
visits to this city.

Father Vaughan.
 Father L. C. Vaughan, the actor, lecturer, in his pleasing, forceful and earnest address, drew home to his audience's thoughts of the righteousness and ethical in his two discourses
on Saturday afternoon and Sunday. This man who gave up the stage while playing leading roles with Madame Moleska, to become a priest, stands as one of the most powerful lecturers upon the Chautauqua platform. His manner is pleasing, his argument convincing, and his logic sound.
He is one of the few men on the lecture platform who does not have to leave his subject for an anecdote or disquisition to hold his audience. He sticks to his theme and in a clear, powerful style of speech, humors on
and on until he reaches his climax.
Never did either audience which heard him here let drop one word that he uttered, always following his thoughts
as he led them from one topic to another, gradually building up a monument of philosophy and logic that seemed invincible.

Sunday's Talk.
 In his lecture on "Shylock," or "Hypocrisy; or a Satire on Christianity," Sunday afternoon, Father Vaughan put his interpretation upon Shylock
as a great play, the Merchant of Venice, often called a comedy by critics, giving him reasons for his conclusions based on the traits of character of the Jew and the Christian. Not a comedy is the Merchant of Venice,
or a piece upon the Jew, but a satire
on Christianity where the characters constantly proclaim the principles of Christ but failed to practice them when they made of Shylock, a man of Seattle origin, that he was grasping and revengeful, neither Jew or Gentle, Father Vaughan said.

Conclus.
 "Gentle," he declared, "is the indefinable sense of the soul that causes one to feel the spirit of nature. The greatest artists are students of nature
and to them the world is a lesson.
The work of art is stimulating in the hearts of others the ideal world, the universal sense of all places. Every artist has his theme to elucidate or express, and with that subject in mind
he sets about to convey in others hearts the spirit of his own. Shylock speaks had a theme in writing that masterful play, the Merchant of Venice. Some critics have said that his theme was Antonio's life but this theory is at fault when we consider that this character does not appear in the last act. Others declare that it is the love story between Shylock and Jessica, but the play was misnamed
if such be the case. Sir Henry Irving said after twelve years of study that the play was not a comedy. He declared that it was a protest on the profession of Christianity, instead of the characters in the play being Christians, they are demons. Shylock does not speak one line of comedy, though audiences laugh at his intonations.
Shylock and Antonio stand as bigots
before us, both hating one another for the love of God."

Gave a Scene.
 Father Vaughan then gave the illustration portraying the characters of Shylock, Desdemona and Antonio in a manner only known to an actor. Drawing his reasons from the scene he declared, "The devil of commercialism was and has been the cause of the persecution of the Jews, not religion.
The doctrine of Christianity does not preach persecution. In all your life you never saw a Jew beggar. Did you ever go to the door in the morning to find a Jew asking you for bread? Did you not seek aid from Christians, no,
they go to beggars of their own race.
These two great traits of character
are commercialism and hostility.
Shylock had neither one of these because of the influence of the Christians upon him. His environment was not sincere—the Christians he knew professed Christianity but did not practice it. Shylock was a product of Christianity. It made him what he was and not a son of God. Jessica was received by the Christians from the synagogue without a question and why? Because she had robbed a Jew.
Shakespeare's object in the writing of the Merchant of Venice was a protest at Christianity and not a sneer at the Jew."

Saturday's Lesson.
 Father Vaughan was heartily congratulated by many of the audience who went forward to shake hands with him before he left the grounds for the depot. In his lecture on "A Story of the Stage," Saturday afternoon, Father Vaughan upheld the stage and its performers. He gave a synopsis of the Music Master as an example of the purpose of the stage, declaring that there is moral lesson and an uplifting purpose in all plays. The German musician who has the leading role in the tragedy, becomes unwrapped in his study and is finally made the leader of a prominent Vienna orchestra.
Then he goes home to break the glad tidings to his wife he finds that she has fled with another man. He pursues her over the whole globe and at last discovers her location somewhere in America. With revenge for the man who has broken up his home in mind
he determines to ruin him. But by doing so he will disgrace his own daughter and for her sake he gives up his vengeance. Telling his theme from this play he emphasized the stage, declaring that actors are as moral as a class of people as those in all other walks of life. In judging of their morality he took society as a standard for comparison showing that fewer viciousness occur among actors than among any other class or profession. "The fact that many girls are educated in convents and then go on the stage is another example of the morality of actresses, he declared. Father Vaughn said that there is a constant clamor for good plays with the highest ethical and moral lessons but these are not patronized because of the apathy

of the church people to condemn the stage.

Big Receipts.
 Over $2,000 was taken in during the recent Chautauqua. This sum will about cover all the expenses incurred in running the assembly. The receipts, as estimated by Secretary Reeder this morning, were $2,007.07,
as follows: single admissions, teams
and chairs, $2,022.07; season tickets (estimated), $825; concessions, $80;
tents, $50; street car company donation, $30. The receipts at the gate for single admissions and teams, and for the rent of chairs, and the estimate of the number of people on the grounds, are given below:

	Receipts.	Attendance.
July 26	$233.17	2,500
July 27	50.55	1,000
July 28	101.29	3,500
July 29	63.20	1,500
July 30	95.15	1,500
Aug. 1	139.65	2,200
Aug. 2	64.70	1,400
Aug. 3	243.20	2,500
Aug. 4	143.85	1,400
Aug. 5	557.50	3,500

The amount of the expenditures will not be known until late this afternoon or tomorrow morning, as all the bills have not been received by Mr.
Reeder. It will therefore be impossible to determine correctly what the deficit or balance will be but it is thought that the receipts and disbursements will total to about the same figure.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Contractor Henry W. Simmons Has Just Finished $3,000 Contract at Ellendale Farm and Park.
 Henry W. Simmons has just completed a $3,000 contract of rebuilding several of the structures on the Ellendale farm on the Ellendale road, owned by James Colville. Cement floors have been laid in the barn and chicken-
house and new corncribs erected.
At the Ellendale park, adjoining, and fronting on the river, just above Idlewild, a fine kitchen with a cement floor, dumb-waiter, and other modern necessaries has also been installed.
Mr. Simmons has also started building a $2,000 home in the Fairview addition, this city.

BULGARIANS FOUND WORK TOO STRENUOUS

Crew of Thirty-five, at the Double-Track Cut Laid Off on Saturday and Operations Are at Standstill.
 "Too much trouble" was the phrase of thirty-five Bulgarians engaged in cutting the C. & N. W. double-track right-of-way through the Milwaukee
stone quarry premises, who quit work Saturday. They notified their boss foreman that the toll was too strenuous for them and that they were going to Chicago. The unwelcome announcement, conveyed to the Hayes Brook, was the first intimation they had that the men were dissatisfied.
The work will practically be at a standstill until a new crew can be procured.

Yuan Shih-Kai
 Yuan Shih-Kai, who is the viceroy of the Chinese province of Pechili in which the Chinese national capital, Peking, is situated, is the man who is responsible for most of the headway made in remodeling the antique Chinese provincial armies. He has also recently had charge of the treaties
for the opening up of sixteen towns in Manchuria to the trade of the world. He has recently come out with a grave rebuke to the native element for their attacks of American and British missionaries in China. While immensely wealthy he is not hated by the poverty-stricken millions of China and is termed by foreign diplomats
"the strongest man in modern China."

To Stop Piles Try This.

Piles get instant relief when Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment is applied. It is a Pile
Cure, remember, and it is good for nothing else whatever except piles.
 General Ointments, for many uses, can't possibly cure piles. A pile ointment must be specific. Every aim of its maker must be directed specifically toward piles alone.
 Says Dr. Shoop, "I make three valuable ointments, but yet, Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment will bring help to pile sufferers." Even then, in old chronic cases, originating because of a torpid liver, with biliousness, I prescribe my Dr. Shoop's Restorative internally while using Magic Ointment locally or externally. Keep in mind this fact, please, that the large blood vessels of the liver originate in the walls of the rectum, where piles arise. Obstructed these vessels in the liver and piles instantaneously appear. Dr. Shoop's Restorative corrects stomach and liver sluggishness, hence its value as an aid to Magic Ointment in the treatment of obstinate cases of piles.
None genuine without Dr. Shoop's name on the package. Sold at 50c per box by

Bridge Driver Is Sent Elsewhere
for Service.

Monterey bridge on the North-Western line in the south part of the city
the pile-driver was taken to Milwaukee Sunday and will be used at Harson to drive piles for a bridge. The timbers sunk at the bridge here will support the span while the new arches are being put in to take the place of the old ones which were condemned.
The driver will be brought back here in a few weeks to do some more work. The tool cars with the driver

KICKERS' KOLUM

August 3, 1907.
 Editor Janesville Gazette,

City.
 Dear Sir: In an article printed in your paper recently, it was stated that on account of the decision of the state factory inspector, that boys and girls should not be employed according to banned under the age of fourteen. That on account of this decision the tobacco interests of the state were vitally affected as a large majority of the help
in warehouses were boys and girls under the age of fourteen years.

This article has been copied in the western papers and is going the rounds of newspapers generally.
 Having been in the leaf tobacco
business thirty years, and employed men and women during this time in the warehouses, and being thoroughly acquainted with the different warehouses of the city as well as the state, I wish to make this correction. It is safe to say that not one in one hundred of the help regularly employed in our warehouses is under the age of fourteen. Especially is this true of the girls. The great majority of the help employed consists of men and women who have assorted tobacco for years,
being experts in the business, and who make better wages than is to be made at any other employment in the state.

The origin of the article in your paper arose from the fact that one of our tobacco men employed about forty boys in his warehouse who were under sixteen years old, during the school vacation only. The state inspector issued orders to discontinue the hiring of these boys.

There is no question in my mind but that boys of this and other cities will make much better money to be employed at this age earning money during school vacation than running around on our streets with nothing to occupy them. Ask any of the successful business men whom you may meet, what they did at the ages of fourteen to sixteen years old and you will find that they were occupied in some manner different from what the new law would prescribe. This inspector even went so far as to state that boys should not be employed to work on the farm during vacation at this age.
While I believe it to be a true declaration that all work and no play is bad for the boy, I believe it a worse doctrine that all play and no work is what fills our country houses and fills with their present occupants.

Yours truly,
 G. H. R.

PROBABLY UNTRUE.

Proof is again afforded of the benevolent wisdom of nature. A professor in the University of Michigan has discovered that the hearing of girls is much more acute than that of boys.
This greater sensitiveness unfortunately explains how the housewives of Wisconsin heard of BUN HUI FLOUR and had improved bakings long before their business husbands had heard of this now famous brand.

"To him who hath—shall be given" is unchanging "store-law." If the merchant "hath" gumption-about-advertising there "shall be given" to him, in increasing ratio, those things in pursuit of which men become merchants.

"All Chance is but Direction, which thou canst not see," wrote Pope. Store-prosperity is the result of Direction which you can not alone see, but you may devise and execute it—chiefly in your advertising campaigns.

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, Aug. 5, 1867.—Stands high in this community. — The thermometer stands 90 degrees in the shade today.

Arrival of Hoses.—Five hundred feet of hose recently purchased by the city has come to hand. It is evidently a capital article, but very bulky. We wonder if the City Fathers contemplate the purchase of enough hose cars to accommodate the whole amount originally spoken of—2000 feet.

New Lumber Firm.—The late firm of Gilmore & Blair has been changed by the withdrawal of Mr. Gilmore, and the business is now conducted by Mr. Blair alone. That gentleman is adding very largely to his stock and builders and farmers will find something in his yards to suit them all.

Personnel.—Mr. Otto Horn, for so long a time connected with the local postoffice, has resigned his position as postmaster and has accepted a position in a bank at Davenport, Ia. While we are pleased to note any change for Mr. H., which will be for his advantage, we regret much to lose him from our city as he is not only a genial young man but a faithful and agreeable public officer.

Shot Them Up.—We are glad to notice that the subject of shutting up geese has been broached in the city council. These animals are an intolerable nuisance to any neighborhood that is so unfortunate as to be afflicted with them. Wherever they gain access to pasture land they ruin it for grazing purposes, for the time being. They are foul birds on general principles, and want abating so far as the streets are concerned.

Coming Attractions.

FRANK AND JOHN WINNINGER, WHO APPEAR HERE THIS WEEK

The Winninger Bros. and their excellent company will open at the Myers theatre Wednesday evening, Aug. 7, for four nights and Saturday matinee engagement. No such artists as the Winninger Bros. have ever appeared in our city before in repertoire. In speaking of the Winninger Bros. they have no equals in their lines. The entertainments which they offer are always clean and bright, and their good acting and clever vandyville has won a reputation for them which guarantees them a capably business wherever they appear. The entire company is made up of clever ladies and gentlemen whose salient features in acting are personality and novelty. At an enormous expense of both time and money, the Winninger Brothers have gathered material which has made their repertoire the largest and best on the road. No source which could possibly furnish anything new or novel has been left untouched.

Their opening play for their engagement here will be the beautiful play at comedy drama, "Along the Mohawk." Ladies will be admitted free on the opening night under the usual conditions.

Not Up to Grade.

There is a significance in the fact that the spring poetry produced in this country is so inferior to the autumn poetry, and in the fact that much of it seems to be "made in Germany" or "England." To write about a thing you must have seen it. —N. Y. Mail.

Rhode Island a Sardine Box.

Rhode Island, which has 400 persons to the square mile, is the most densely populated state in the union. The figures are from a recent bulletin from the census bureau. There are only seven other states with more than a hundred to the square mile. Rhode Island leads not only in density of population, but in increase in density.

A Harmony in Brown.

The man in the brown lounge suit, with tie and socks and shoes to match, and perhaps handkerchief-border as well, may strike one as being a trifle too suggestive of the gay young Mayfair hero of musical comedy, but he cuts a more agreeable figure to the eye in such a get-up than he does in a sartorial scheme of badly ordered contrasts.—Gentleman.

Treatment of Sprains.

Sprains must always be treated by keeping the injured part as still as possible. If the joint can be covered, a bandage should be put around it once, or if the sprain be a very severe one, splints may be put on.

Examinations.

No one with any practical knowledge of affairs will argue that the mere passing of an examination is a proof of intellectual superiority, and still less that it is a guarantee of good judgment and common sense.—London Hospital.

Getting Together.

"There's altogether too much side-stepping these unorthodox days," remarked the devil. "The deep sea and I will have to get together some way."

STRIKEBREAKERS FOR DENVER.

Many Going to Work for the Colorado & Southern Road.

Denver, Col., Aug. 5.—Officials of the Colorado & Southern railroad said Sunday that 75 strikebreakers were on the way to Denver from different parts of the country to take the places of switchmen, yardmen, brakemen and others of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen who struck for an increase in wages of two cents an hour.

The strike has practically tied up freight traffic over the road, and although the territory between Denver and Pueblo is not affected by reason of the joint track agreement between the Colorado & Southern and Santa Fe railroads, the southern division of the former road is operating no freight trains.

Eight Trainmen Are Injured.

Chester, Mass., Aug. 5.—Eight train hands were injured, three of them seriously, in the derailing of a freight train Sunday on the Boston and Albany division of the New York Central railroad, at the foot of a steep grade between this town and Washington. The train on a down grade got beyond the control of the crew and, overtaking a light engine, pushed it along a mile and then jumped the track.

THE WORLD WAITS

Just at present the world waits to see what France and Spain are to accomplish in the Moroccan situation. France has evidently had its work cut out for it for some time past, but now the closing chapters are to be written. A fleet of warships is to descend down upon the African coast and the Moors taught a lesson. If present plans are not a success, the referees, one of London's most conservative papers, has the following to say upon the situation, comparing it to the reign of England in India. Just at this time the opinion of this paper which voices the opinion of the thinking men of England will be interesting to note:

"One hundred and fifty years after Plassey and fifty years after the massacre of Cawnpore, India, for five reasons is again in unrest. No wonder. French dupes are sometimes disorderly, violent, and unreasonable, but they never dream of sapping French authority in Saigon, Senegal, Algeria, or Tunis by conspiring with disaffected natives. 'Tis otherwise in England. Every crocheted can discover in India food for his fancy or fuel for his fire. Dreamers like Mr. Wilfrid Blunt, socialists like Mr. Robertson, disaffected Irishmen like Mr. Swift MacNeill, and ready to their hands all that they seek at a reasonable price. Seventy thousand white soldiers control a population of three hundred million souls, many of them the flower of the warlike races of the world. The spell of England's name for iron will, indomitable courage, and even justice is equal to many armies. Injure her fame, and whether the slender proceed from Hindu traitor, Gladstonian baronet, half-educated anarchist, or cultured cleric, the result is the same. The choice lies between the evacuation of India and the expenditure of our last shilling and our last life to hold the overlordship won at the battle of Plassey. England has half-forgotten India. Were it not so, the paternalistic frivolities of parliament would be preceded by a general effort of statesmen on both sides to enlighten the democracy as to the price to be paid for Indian empire. The danger ahead in India cannot be met by nervous, sentimental, or excited politicians. Men of the stamp of the late Mr. Cairnes, the late Sir Joseph Parnell, and other anti-opiumists dead and alive had probably no intention of wrecking the empire when they embarked on their intemperate crusade against the moderate use of the drug by a vegetarian and fever-ridden people; but they did all they knew to render the task of the gallant British garrison well-nigh hopeless."

DRICK PAVEMENTS

Janesville will soon have new pavements to lay, especially on East Milwaukee street. The Municipal Engineering Magazine for August contains a very thorough discussion of the best methods of constructing such a pavement and for the general information of the readers parts of the article are worth considering. The best methods and the worst methods described and classified and as an instance of one of the most successful brick-paved streets in the country it refers to Wabash street in Terre Haute, Ind., which was paved eighteen years ago and is described as being still perfect in surface where it has been undisturbed by the raveling of the street

PRESS COMMENT.

Another Disappointment

Milwaukee News: Unfortunately, the discovery that ashes could be burned and give more heat than coal didn't work.

Here's an Ingenious Argument

New York Commercial: Real news is more plentiful than last summer, as evidenced by the innumerable destruction of Oyster Bay date trees.

Give Pause! See Who Applauds!

Grand Rapids Herald: Emma Goldman has sent her congratulations to Haywood, which fact should cool the ardor of other people.

"Flare-back" to Be Expected

Bryan's Commoner: The trouble

about a stir fine for the Standard Oil company is the "flare-back" that is sure to catch the public.

Harmless Summer Trifling

Albany Record: Organizing La Follette clubs is a light amusement and something that is that too strenuous for this hot weather.

In Fulfillment of Prophecy

Sheboygan Journal: Vice President Fairbanks is en route to Lincoln, Neb. This is the conjunction of planets told about in the almanac for August.

An Unkind Suggestion

Fond du Lac Bulletin: That Baptist minister at Rhineland who handed a lemon to the circus and its people was perhaps passed up when the "comps" were given out.

Should Reward His Only Backer

Chicago Tribune: As a graceful act of reciprocity President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university should seize an early opportunity of nominating Col. Harper, editor of Harper's Weekly, for vice president of the United States.

Glad Tidings—From Assessment Rolls

Beloit Free Press: The Waukesha Freeman, after examining the assessed valuation of automobiles for taxation purposes, comes to the conclusion that there is no reason why everyone shouldn't have one.

The Episode or the Story?

La Crosse Leader-Press: The press accounts of the dismissal of a New York policeman convicted of writing in the face of death at the hands of a murderer he was attempting to arrest, are maudlin and disgusting.

Hard on the Theatres

Chicago Inter Ocean: It is estimated that over 4,000 actors are out of employment in Chicago this summer owing to the prevalence of the automatic theatre. And yet it is held in some quarters that machinery is not a foe of honest labor.

Vardaman Rebuked

Milwaukee Journal: Vardaman did not win his senatorial fight despite his condemnation of Roosevelt and the American flag. The governor of Mississippi forgot that there is no longer a north and south, save in history.

Approved!

Milwaukee Free Press: The appointment of John H. Roemer of Milwaukee as Mr. Barnes' successor on the railroad commission makes it very evident that it has always been Gov. Davidson's determination to maintain the high character of that board.

Hardly a Parallel Case

Sheboygan Journal: Policeman Walsh of New York was degraded the other day for cowardice, in almost the same way as the French degraded Dreyfus. Instead of sitting in a cage at Devil's Island, however, Walsh probably will open a saloon.

Cost Northwestern Mutual $13,830

Green Bay Gazette: The lobbying expenses of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company during the recent session of the Wisconsin legislature were $13,830 and the risk firm is probably asking itself if what it got was worth the price.

Hobson Bound to Have War

Madison Democrat: Captain Hobson, now congressman but erstwhile the much-kissed hero of a boat-lifting escapade, advises preparation for war with England. His failure to arrange a Japanese embargo seems to have made him desperate and he is ready to take a long shot at any old kind of a conflict.

At $2,000 Per

Evening Wisconsin: The prosperity of the times is indicated by the effort of the Curand company to enter the demands of the most luxurious on the new steamer Lusitania. The cabin contains two "regal suites" which can be engaged by those who are eager to show that they can afford to pay $2,000 for the run across the sea. The ship is nearly ready. Don't all speak at once!

Antics of the Law in Kansas

Chicago Tribune: "In Kansas," says an exchange, "the stern arm of the law has stopped in and decreed that bakers shall no longer knead dough with their feet." It is high time therefore, for the stern arm of the law to seize the cabbage raisers in its showy grasp and utter the imperious demand that they shall no longer "puck their suetcrust in barrels by the process of tramping it with their bare heels."

Railroad Taxes Increased

Green Bay Gazette: It is announced from Madison that the aggregate taxes of the railways of the state have been increased this year a round of a year ago. "This sum has been reached by the state tax commission after careful consideration and it is altogether probable that the railways will be obliged to stand the raise. Larger business and a greater mileage will recompense the roads for the increase."

Barnes Above Such Tricks

Madison Journal: We have too high an opinion of Mr. Barnes to believe that his resignation from the railroad commission was part of a scheme to bring himself before the public as a candidate for governor, as a writer in the Milwaukee Free Press professes to believe. Mr. Barnes showed uncommonly haste in resigning from the commission, and in sparing with Lieut. Gov. Connor, but he is too level-headed to think that the course he pursued would bring him political advantage. And, besides, he is too honorable a man to resort to a petty scheme such as the Free Press writer suggests.

Nature Fakes Blacklisted

Indianapolis News: After a careful and impartial consideration of all the evidence bearing on the subject, the investigating committee reports that, notwithstanding their long life and apparent respectability, the following are undoubtedly nature fakes: The bull in the china shop. The wolf at the door. The fly in the ointment. The dog in the manger. The fish out of water.

The bee in the bonnet.

The flea in the ear.

The rat that was smothered.

The chorus girl's jobster.

Pigs in clover.

Horse and horse.

Time flies.

The waltz rabbit.

The man on a lark.

They are accordingly deleted from the white house phrase book, and will receive no further official recognition.

FOUR DIVORCES ARE GRANTED BY COURT

Judge Grimm Granted One Decree to Mrs. Minnie M. Paris of Janesville—Other Business Disposed of.

Judge Grimm arrived here from Jefferson this morning and devoted the entire morning to business which had accumulated during his vacation trip to Denver and other western points. Four divorces were granted.

Mrs. Minnie M. Paris secured a decree against George G. Paris on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, together with $15 a month alimony. Atty. Claude Hendricks represented the plaintiff. The defendant made no appearance.

Through her attorney, H. W. Adams, Mrs. Mary Oswald of Beloit secured a divorce from Christian Oswald. The complaint was brought on the grounds of desertion.

W. W. Powers secured a decree of divorce from Jennie C. Powers on the ground of desertion. Atty. John Cunningham appeared for the plaintiff. Mrs. Blanche Newton of Watertown secured a divorce from F. H. Newton on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Atty. J. L. Mahoney of Portage was her attorney.

Claims of Carl Williams and Edward Kerry for painting, papering, and decorating done in the residence of Dr. Charles T. Pierce and wife, were presented and a mechanic's lien for $75.58 and $10.14 costs adjudged against the property.

Judge Grimm went to Monroe this afternoon and will hold court there tomorrow. He will be at the court house in Janesville again on Wednesday. Next week Monday he goes to Ashland where he will hold court for Judge J. K. Parish of the 15th district.

Old Church in Alaska.

In Sitka, Alaska, is one of the most ancient and historic churches in the dominion of the United States. It was built many years ago when Russia ruled there, and the site of a Grecian spire overshadowing the simple shrine in the wilderness was dear to homesick Russian hearts. Solid silver candlesticks, six feet high, guard the altar and a massive chandelier of rich silver hangs from the dome. On the walls hang paintings from masters of the old world, the altar vestments are encrusted with priceless jewels, and the robes of the priests, displayed to interested tourists, are richly embroidered in precious stones. The church has no pews, the worshippers standing in groups about the church while the two hours' service is in progress.

Driving Into Nets.

In the old days every southern gentleman had his net for quail. The drive was an event in the county. Our youth of to-day may never enjoy such sport. In the proper season the neighbors were invited. All came on horseback, for while quail will rise from the approach of a dog or man, they will run along the ground ahead of a gentle horse. Much skill was required to drive a covey into the net. As many as 30 horsemen would form a semi-circle and slowly, patiently, silently make the round-up, all driving toward the common center, yet from one general direction only, and that always against the wind. The net had been set facing the wind. An impatient man on a fractious horse might destroy the work of half a day by flushing entire coveys.

Fortune Teller's Blunder.

"That fortune-teller got all mixed up on my husband," said she, as they left the tent. "He said I had two; then he wouldn't say I would have three. I thought that was mean of him. Instead, he kept on saying what a nice husband I had now, what a fine man he was and all that idiosyncrasy. Why, my husband is the meanest little brute that ever lived. I haven't laid eyes on him for two years. Now, why do you suppose the fortune teller kept on saying he was such a nice husband?" she demanded. "That's easy," said he. "He thought I was your husband and he'd get to tell my fortune when he had finished with yours."

One Use for Catalogues.

The American consul at Nankin utters a caution to his fellow countrymen, who spend lavishly on illustrated catalogues on thick paper, handsome bound, which appear to be highly prized by the Chinese at Nankin, where the supply is at times unequal to the demand. As the English language is not yet a general accomplishment among the citizens, the consul made inquiries and discovered that the leaves of the catalogues were being used as inside soles for shoes.

Nile Has Many Species of Fish.

The fish population of the Nile is said to present a greater variety than that of any other body of water. An expedition sent from the British museum not long ago secured 9,000 specimens.

An Old Offender.

A man has won $750 in a suit against a street car company for having his feelings hurt by the insulting language of the conductor. Now, let somebody make a case against the hotel clerk.

Cleaning Dishes.

Soaking a dish in which something has browned in water containing a little sal soda, lye or ashes is better than to scrape it.

Interurban league scores yesterday were: Janesville 8, Beloit 3; Rockford 2, Beldere 1. The Janesville-Beloit game was played before a good sized crowd at Yost's Park, four interurban cars being required to transport the local delegation of fans back to the Bowler City. Overlooking some ragged work in the eighth inning which led to five runs for the locals, it was a good game of baseball. Pitcher J. Utter for Janesville struck out 12 men; allowed six hits; and gave three bases on balls. Knight, who was in the box for Beloit, struck out eight; gave one base on balls; and allowed 10 hits. Two base hits were negotiated by Miller, Schuler, Burns, and Ward. The detailed story of the game is as follows:

Union of the Mental and Moral.

This union of the mental and moral into a life of admirable simplicity is what we most admire in children; but in them it is unmet and unpractical. But when it is preserved into manhood, deepened into reliability and maturity, it is that glorified childlikeness, that high and reverend simplicity, which shames and baffles the most accomplished astuteness, and is chosen by God to fill his purposes when he needs a ruler for his people. —Phillips Brooks.

Vain Old Men.

"Old men are the limit," said the barber. "I wish you could see the length of some of these locks that they grow on the back of the neck or above the ear, to hide their baldness with. I've seen such locks a foot long. They look all right, when they're arranged properly, but they are always getting disarranged, and then they look ridiculous." —Chicago Journal.

TRUST BUSTING

The most popular man in the hearts of the American people today is President Roosevelt.

Why? Because he stands for the "square deal" to the common people as well as to the corporations.

He takes the side of the people who need things and against the combinations that would take advantage of their needs, to extort undue gains.

These are days when lots of men find it to their profit to combine and raise prices.

In Dantistry, Dr. Richards of Janesville holds aloft from all local combines and maintains his prices on a living, reasonable basis.

NOLAN TO DEFEND FLORENCE DUGAN

AT THE TRIAL SET FOR AUGUST 27.

BAIL REDUCED TO $1,500

And Friends Will Make an Effort to Secure the Necessary Signers— Examination Was Waived.

Attorney Thomas S. Nolan has been retained to defend Miss Florence Dugan in her forthcoming trial on the charge of assault with intent to kill George Schumacher. The prisoner appeared in municipal court this morning and on advice of Attorneys H. L. Maxfield and Nolan waived examination. Whereupon her trial was set for Tuesday morning, August 27. Judge Filfield at first fixed her bail bonds at $3,000, but Attorney Nolan argued that the sum was absolutely prohibitive, whereupon there might be some possibility of raising $1,500, and that unless it was the avowed purpose of the State to keep the young woman in jail, the amount should be reduced. District Attorney Pflieger was inclined to believe that $2,000 was a very low sum, inasmuch as it was by no means certain that Schumacher would recover, even though he was reported somewhat better at this time. The court finally decided to reduce the bail to $1,500, and an effort will be made by Miss Dugan's friends to secure the necessary signers.

LIVE WIRE DROPS AT STREET CORNER

Interurban Line Wire Causes Scare by Breaking in Two This Morning.

Without doing any damage or killing any one the interurban trolley wire burned off at the corner of Milwaukee and Franklin streets at 9:15 this morning, causing a small panic among the passers-by and the people in rigs who were in the near vicinity. The end of the wire came near striking Mrs. Alice Julek, living near the corner, who was driving by the corner as the live wire struck the car but did not injure it. The wire, striking the car, caused a small panic among the passers-by and the people in rigs who were in the near vicinity. The electricity playing around the corner lighted up the street very brightly, striking terror in most of the people near the corner. The current, 550 volts strong, was shut off before the trolley could be repaired.

After crossing Milwaukee street the trolley pole of a northbound interurban car broke in two on Franklin street this afternoon at 1:10, delaying the car's progress for a few minutes.

MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL TONIGHT

Interested Parties Will Have Hearing on Proposed East, Madison, and E. Milwaukee St. Improvements.

With regard to the proposed curbing on East and Madison streets, and the brick paving on East Milwaukee street, property-owners interested will be granted a hearing at the regular meeting of the city council this evening.

Afterwards the final determination of benefits and damages will be made. Mrs. Kate Richter has filed two more notices of claims for damages of $500 for injury alleged to have been done to her property near the Blue Point by reason of the inadequacy of the sewers on July 10 and July 21. Charles C. Gray has also served notice through Attorney W. H. Donaherty that he will claim satisfaction from the city for injuries sustained on N. Academy street at a point between Racine and Racine street by reason of the overturning of a vehicle which he was driving on the night of July 20. He claims that the proper barricade and lights were wanting; that a pile of dirt thrown up from excavations onto the street cut right-of-way was responsible for the accident which befell him and a companion named Frank Schumacher; that he struck the bridge of his nose on one of the street-car rails and injured his back and shoulders so badly that a physician had to be summoned, and he was thereafter unable to attend to business for two or three days. These two matters will doubtless be referred to the judiciary committee for investigation.

THE SPORTING WORLD

Some Details About National Tennis Championships.

DOUBLES PLAY VERY POPULAR

Bernie Wefers, Well Known Trainer and Sprinter, Says His Pupil, R. Cloughran, Should Soon Lower World's Record in 100 Yard Dash.

The officials controlling the holding of the national lawn tennis championships at Newport, R. I., opening about Aug. 20, have arranged certain details relating thereto, different from the custom in the past.

For instance, the men who meet Ben C. Wright and Holcombe Ward for the national title in doubles will not be the victors in a contest merely between the eastern and western doubles champions. Instead, the play in doubles preliminary to the actual national championship contests was directed to be cut up into three sections.

Play in these three sections was decided to be held at Atlanta, Ga.; Chicago and Longwood, Mass. Then it was directed that the winners in these series be ready to play at the Crescent A. C. courts, Bay Ridge, N. Y., Aug. 30 and 31.

The winners at Bay Ridge meet Wright and Ward.

The winner of the all comers' tourney in singles at Newport meets W. J. Cloughran of Philadelphia for the national singles title in the challenge round.

A special contest between Miss May Sutton, champion woman tennis player of Great Britain, and Miss Sears, the American champion, is planned for the tri-state tournament, which opens in Cincinnati the last of August.

Nothing definite has yet been heard from Miss Sutton, but the officials of the tournament have the matter before them and are hopeful of securing the contest, for which a valuable prize will be offered.

Interest in the playing of the lawn tennis doubles has been considerably heightened by the splendid performance of Ben C. Wright and Karl H. Hehr in the international matches in England. Their turning of the tables on Norman F. Brooks and Anthony P. Wilding, the Australians and recent winners of the English championship, provided ample proof that the Americans were better equipped for this branch of the game than for singles.

From the standpoint of the spectator the doubles yield more exciting moments and more spectacular racket work than do the singles, although the doubles are relatively regarded as but a makeshift compared with the singles game. With the generally improved conditions in lawn tennis the doubles have come in rather tardily for their share of the better influences. One reason for this has been that it was difficult for pairs to hang together for a long enough period to show what they could do under continued association. Dwight F. Davis and Holcombe Ward, however, held together for several years and by so doing won the valuable twin cups presented by Colonel John Jacob Astor.

"If there is any athlete in training at the present time who will establish a new world's mark in the 100 yard dash this year it is R. Cloughran," said Bernie Wefers, the noted sprinter and trainer of the Irish-American Athletic club, New York. Cloughran, who has recently been graduated from Fordham college, has shown great speed this season while representing the Irish-American Athletic club.

He finished second in the 100 yard dash in the Junior American Athletic union championship and won the 220 yard race. In the former he did not run his best and allowed W. J. Keating, a clubmate, to beat him home by less than a yard.

Cloughran is a youngster only nineteen years old. He is a big fellow and has the form of a great runner. He is of ideal build, deep chested and has long legs. Wefers predicts that before the year has ended his charge will have hung up a record of 9.25 for the 100 yard dash.

Dreyfuss a Horse Owner.

Barney Dreyfuss, the Pittsburg baseball magnate, is now a full fledged race horse owner. With Alex Labold of Cincinnati Mr. Dreyfuss has registered partnership in two two-year-olds, Bill Heron and Chulita, the horses to continue to run in Mr. Labold's name. Chulita has been a winner in the west. Mr. Dreyfuss has long been a patron of racing and rarely lets an opportunity escape him to visit the track when possible, but this is his entry into the sport as an owner.

Clark Griffith Gets New Pitchers.

Two new pitchers have been added to the staff of the New York Americans. President Farrell purchasing Washington's title to Hillbrand, the former Princeton star, and buying Manning from the Wilmington club of the Tri-State league. Both are right handed. Hillbrand was one of the greatest athletes ever at Princeton and was a star both at baseball and football.

Jake Weimer.

Pitcher Jake Weimer of the Cincinnati Reds reports that he has at last secured control to his satisfaction.

New Pirate Third Sacker.

The Pittsburg club has signed a third baseman from the Canadian league named Jack Wilkey.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

If Bob Fitzsimmons is "Drokey," the Fight Fans Will Help Him Out. Great old Bob Fitzsimmons would never have entered the ring against Jack Johnson if he had not been in dire need of money. This is the opinion of Bob's friends, and they are united in saying that he will be given a big benefit performance in America would be only too glad to go on the stage and do a stunt for "the man with the wallop."

John Conklin, the well known sportsman and old time friend of Fitz, speaks as follows: "I know it will amaze folks to hear that Fitz is broke. It did me when I heard about it."

"But Fitz has been easy for sharpers."

"Once on a railway train he was asked to play a certain man's hand at

HOW JOHNSON KNOCKED OUT FITZ. Now Johnson knocked out Fitz, and he was dealt a big hand—four aces, I think. He immediately wanted to bet his own money, and the others let him. He put up a big sum, and one of the players put down a straight flush. This shows how easy Fitz was.

"Another time some men got a lot of money from him, one of them posing as Collis P. Huntington and asking Fitz to come back in his private car, the last one on the train, and make himself at home. Fitz went back and nearly had a fight with the conductor. The last car was a private car, all right, but it was not Huntington's."

"We want to raise some money for Fitz by a benefit, and I hope everybody who admires honest fighting will turn in and help this man. He certainly needs everything he can get."

Another friend of Fitzsimmons said: "The trouble with Fitz is that he thinks he is an actor. He has sunk thousands of dollars in the last few years 'angeling' his own vaudeville and dramatic companies. I'll go in on any scheme that will raise money for Fitzsimmons, but I hope he will live with what he gets in a good paying farm. He has a taste for farming and can make a good living out of one and enjoy himself at the same time."

Perhaps the Senegambian conqueror of Fitz, now that he has performed the wonderful feat of vanquishing a crippled old man, may turn his thoughts to things Thersian and pose behind the footlights as Uncle Tom, whispering words of encouragement to Little Eva before her frail body gives up the ghost and hastily changing to fighting regalia to box with some longshoreman sparring partner. Peter Jackson used to play Uncle Tom. Why shouldn't Johnson?

THEIR GOES DAD, THE HOT OLD SPORT, OFF ON HIS VACATION.

Paul Haney has bought another two-year-old for a huge sum. Next year we predict that any number of prospective sellers will hurry to register the name Gold Brick for some juvenile in the hope of getting a deal on with Paul.

Judging from the present status of the ring, a "square" fighter is one who keeps his agreements to lie down at the specified time.

Salvatore, the eastern racer, is said to be suffering from an ulcerated tooth, here's where Gilpin, the plater in the McCormick stable, has a laugh at the state candidate. Gilpin has false teeth.

BASEBALL TOPICS.

Larry Doyle, Minor League Player, Bought For $4,500.

CASE PATTON ONCE BELLBOY

The Able Washington American Pitcher Halls From Westport, N. Y., Pitched For Kansas City Team—Tom Loftis Compliments the Twirler.

The first player to graduate from the "Three 13s" (Illinois, Indiana and Iowa) league this season had the distinction of attracting the largest sum ever paid for a minor league star. The distinction falls upon Lawrence Doyle, the crack third baseman of the Springfield (Ill.) team. He recently departed for New York City to report to John McGraw of the Giants.

The sum of $4,500 was paid for Doyle, and the sale has attracted wide attention in the national sport. Doyle is playing his second season as a professional. He is a cant miner and began playing baseball with an independent team. Last year the team was taken into the K. I. T. league and Doyle remained.

He was scouted last winter by Springfield in a trade and has made a wonderful record since, batting around .325 and fielding sensationally. He is especially fast in handling bunts, and he is among the fastest in the league in base running.

If the mighty southpaw, Case Patton of the Washington American league club, ever needs a certificate of baseball ability, the champion Chicago White Sox will furnish it to him willingly. If Case ever should have to go out in the world to work for a living, his former manager, Tom Loftis, will write him 25 letters of recommendation, while Manager Joe Cantillon of the Washingtons will be likely to give him a few months' board free.

"Patton, like many another good ball player, came from the Kansas City club," recently said Tom Loftis, while Cantillon, who stood near, nodded his head for Loftis to continue, "and Kansas City under Jimmy Manning had a due team."

"Patton grew up to be a hotel bellboy at Westport, N. Y., and his hard work for a time was looking after summer boarders. Later his pitching for Kansas City, not several thousand years ago, but a long, long time ago, earned him favorable comment, and Washington got him. When I took charge of the Washington team he was one of my assets, and I grew to like Case very much. Bill Coughlin and Manager Clymer of the Columbus American association team were former team mates of Patton, and they all swear by him."

"I recall one fall, while traveling, a motherly looking woman, well dressed, but evidently in trouble, boarded the train, and when the conductor came around she asked to be trusted for her fare. She had lost her purse and would make up her indebtedness immediately upon arriving home.

"Patton could never hear of a woman being in distress. He had not more than $10 with him, but he proffered it all to the woman, refusing to accept her name and address. Some time later a prominent business man of a town in the east lured up Patton, informed him that the woman he had befriended was his mother, and, in settling upon payment, he added a nice present as a token of his appreciation of the courtesy."

TROLLEY SMASHES AUTO; THREE HURT

WELL KNOWN YOUNG NEW YORKERS INJURED IN ACCIDENT.

G. E. TARBELL THE DRIVER

Edward L. Woodeson and William Catchings the Other Victims—Last Named Has Very Narrow Escape.

New York, Aug. 5.—Three well known young men were frightfully if not fatally injured Sunday when their automobile was struck by a surface car, and after being shoved along for a distance of 30 feet, was smashed to fragments against an elevated railroad pillar.

The victims are Swift Tarbell, son of Gage E. Tarbell, who was formerly a vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society; Edward L. Woodeson and William Catchings. Tarbell has a broken leg, a dislocated shoulder, gasoline burns on the face and body and is black with bruises. His companions suffered similar bruises and Catchings also has a leg broken, a shoulder dislocated and what appeared to be a fracture of the skull. Woodeson was the most fortunate of the three, but is badly off through shock.

Gladiolus Car Was Ruined. On the way to Bellevue hospital where the injured were taken, young Tarbell, who owned and drove the car, regained his senses and inquired whether the machine had been ruined. Upon being told that it had been he continued: "I'm glad of it. I'll never ride in an automobile again."

The party was bound for Garden City, Long Island, where the three were to meet the elder Tarbell. Their 40-horsepower machine was coming down the incline on West Thirty-fourth street at fair speed when at the junction a Third Avenue surface car crossed their path. The automobilists say that the street car was running beyond easy control while others said that Tarbell attempted to beat out the trolley at the crossing. The car struck the automobile squarely and jammed it against the railway pillar with such force that the car was derailed, the automobile torn to pieces and its occupants held fast in the wreck.

Catchings' Close Call. Catchings was thrown under the surface car between the trucks and wedged between the brake beam and pavement. Had the rear trucks moved a few inches further they must have cut him in two. Tarbell was caught between the running board of the car and one side of the wrecked machine. His broken leg had been pushed through the spokes of a wheel. Woodeson was pinned under the trolley's raised trucks. It was necessary to raise the passenger car before the injured men could be taken out. All were unconscious.

WHITES AND BLACKS IN BATTLE.

Thousands Fight in New York Streets—Two Fatally Hurt.

New York, Aug. 5.—The fighting element among the whites and blacks in the vicinity of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, lined up according to their racial prejudices again Sunday to settle a baseball dispute, and when the argument was ended 50 persons required medical treatment and of that number two will die. Probably 5,000 persons took part in the fight, but the 500 policemen who dispersed the mob after every one was fought out got only nine prisoners, and of these two were women.

John McCue, a truck driver 32 years old, and Matthew Murtha, aged 35 years, an ice peddler, received fractured skulls and were removed to a hospital in a dying condition. The injuries of others ranged from broken noses to serious razor cuts.

Killed in Auto Accident.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 5.—By the bursting of a tire on an automobile Sunday afternoon as it was racing through Southport, Peter Henderson was killed and William Mallory was badly bruised.

CAIRO'S CURSE OF BLINDNESS.

Affliction Little Heeded by the Fatalists of the East.

The first thing that impresses the stranger at Cairo is the number of blind—men, women and children—to be found everywhere in the shops and on the streets. Ophthalmia is very prevalent throughout Egypt, because of superstition concerning "the evil eye," the native mothers of the middle or the lower class do not wash the eyes of their babies at all. Watching the flies buzzing unheeded around and upon these blind children, a stranger hastens to buy a fly whisk. These are for sale everywhere, and are quite attractive with their ornaments of fancy beads and palm leaf fiber. Blind beggars greet one at every corner. Even in the high class Egyptian families there are many blind. The lower classes of Egyptians are given much to hashish—that is, the lower classes in the large cities—and, although it is against the law to sell it, one will have the hashish places pointed out and the men who smoke the drug are seen everywhere. They are distinguished by the peculiar appearance of their eyes, which become red, swollen and baggy underneath, and by the peculiar color of the skin, which resembles somewhat the skin of a Chinese opium smoker.—Lestly's Weekly.

BIG CONTEST IN MILWAUKEE

TO ENJOIN ERECTION OF CITY ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

Papers Prepared in Suit Backed By Business Men's Associations—Money Needed Elsewhere.

Milwaukee, Aug. 5.—The papers have been prepared in a suit to enjoin the city from erecting a proposed million dollar electric light plant, to compete with the present private corporation, the ground for the injunction being that the city needs to invest one and one-half million dollars in bridges, viaducts, schools and other necessary improvements.

To erect the city light plant as proposed will mean an indefinite deferring of the other improvements, as the city is now too near its bond limit to build both the light plant and the bridges, viaducts and schools. T. J. Xaney is asking the injunction, which is supported by all the three city business men's associations.

When the Socialists began their agitation for a municipal light plant here, there was considerable public sentiment in favor of the plant. Now only the Socialists favor the plant. The city controller has announced that owing to the city's financial condition he will not counteract contracts for the plant. The Socialist element which favors the plant is strong, however, holding the balance of power in the city council, and the injunction will mean a bitter fight to last for months. The papers will be served Monday.

ANOTHER WOMAN ATTACKED.

New York Crimes Continued—Two Men Beaten by Mob.

New York, Aug. 5.—Another murderous assault was added Sunday night to the police record of recent crimes against defenseless women and girls. Sunday's victim was Mrs. Ellen Bulger, a woman of middle age, who was attacked in her apartments in the Bronx, cruelly beaten and left in a helpless state. Her assailant escaped.

Just before Mrs. Bulger was assaulted, George Kostner, a Russian, charged with attempted assault upon an eight-year-old girl, was set upon by a crowd of men and all but killed. The clothes were torn from his body and he was taken to a station house wrapped in a blanket.

Another mob set upon Hylo Saloda, an Italian palmist, who was similarly accused, and only the timely intervention of police reserves saved him from summary punishment.

FORTY PASSENGERS DROWNED.

Railway Car in France Plunges Into the River Loire.

Angers, France, Aug. 5.—Forty passengers in a third class railroad car and the engineer of the train were drowned Sunday afternoon in a railroad accident three miles southeast of this town.

The locomotive of a crowded local train jumped the track when entering the bridge over the river Loire at Les Ponts-de-Co. The stone railing gave way, and the engine plunged into the river 50 feet below, dragging down with it its tender and the baggage and third class car. Fortunately no other chums of the boy had dared him to climb the trestle and rob a bird's nest under the iron girders.

Lad Is Electrocuted.

New York, Aug. 5.—Suspended in a network of electric wires 70 feet in the air alongside the trestle of the Public Service Corporation trolley line in Hoboken, a 12-year-old boy was shocked and burned to death Sunday night, and several hundred persons looked on helplessly. Two chums of the boy had dared him to climb the trestle and rob a bird's nest under the iron girders.

Arkansas Editor Murdered.

Helena, Ark., Aug. 5.—J. M. Scott, city editor of the Helena World, was found dead on the sidewalk Sunday morning at two o'clock. Two bullets had entered his head. It is generally believed the killing was due to a personal quarrel.

Earl of Clan William Dies.

London, Aug. 5.—Richard James Meade, fourth earl of Clan William, died. He was born October 3, 1832.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

"Kate is the daughter of Senator Roberts, and if this marriage is broken off in any way without the senator's consent, he is in a position to injure my interests materially. If you see Jefferson, send him to me in the library. I'll go and keep Roberts in good humor until he comes."

He went downstairs, and Mrs. Ryder proceeded to her apartment, where she found Jefferson chatting with Kate. She at once delivered Ryder's message.

"Jeff, your father wants to see you in the library."

"Yes; I want to see him," answered the young man grimly, and after a few moments' more badinage with Kate he left the room.

It was not a mere coincidence that had brought Senator Roberts and his daughter and the financier's son all together under the Ryder roof at the same time. It was part of Jefferson's well prepared plan to expose the weakness of his father's secretary and at the same time rid himself of the embarrassing entanglement with Kate Roberts. If the senator were confronted publicly with the fact that his daughter, while keeping up the fiction of being engaged to Ryder Junior, was really preparing to run off with the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, he would have no alternative but to retrograde under fire and relinquish all idea of a marriage alliance with the house of Ryder. The critical moment had arrived. Tomorrow, Wednesday, was the day fixed for the elopement. The secretary's little game had gone far enough. The time had come for action. So Jefferson had written to Senator Roberts, who was in Washington, asking him if it would be convenient for him to come at once to New York and meet himself and his father on a matter of importance. The senator naturally jumped to the conclusion that Jefferson and Ryder had reached an amicable understanding, and he immediately hurried to New York and, with his daughter, came round to Seventy-fourth street.

When Ryder senior entered the library, Senator Roberts was sitting nervously up and down the room. This, he felt, was an important day. The ambition of his life seemed on the point of being attained.

"Hello, Roberts," was Ryder's cheerful greeting. "What's brought you from Washington at a critical time like this? The Rossmore impudent needs every friend we have."

"Just as if you didn't know," smiled the senator uneasily, "that I am here by appointment to meet you and your son."

"To meet me and my son?" echoed Ryder, astonished.

The senator, perplexed and beginning to feel real alarm, showed the financier Jefferson's letter. Ryder read it, and he looked pleased.

"That's all right," he said, "if the lady asked you to meet us here it can mean only one thing—that at last he has made up his mind to this marriage."

"That's what I thought," replied the senator, breathing more freely. "I was sorry to leave Washington at such a time, but I'm a father, and Kate is more to me than the Rossmore impudent. Besides, to see her married to your son Jefferson is one of the dearest wishes of my life."

"You can rest easy," said Ryder. "That is practically settled. Jefferson's sending for you proves that he is now ready to meet my wishes. He'll be here any minute. How is the Rossmore case progressing?"

"Not so well as it might," growled the senator. "There's a lot of manly sympathy for the judge. He's a pretty sick man by all accounts, and the newspapers seem to be taking his part. One or two of the western senators are talking 'corporate influence and trust legislation, but when it comes to a vote the matter will be settled on party lines."

"That means that Judge Rossmore will be removed?" demanded Ryder sternly.

"Yes, with five votes to spare," answered the senator.

"That's not enough," insisted Ryder. "There must be at least twenty. Let there be no blunders, Roberts. The man is a menace to all the big commercial interests. This thing must go through."

The door opened, and Jefferson appeared. On seeing the senator talking with his father, he hesitated on the threshold.

"Come in, Jeff," said his father pleasantly. "You expected to see Senator Roberts, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir. How do you do, senator?" said the young man, advancing into the room.

"I got your letter, my boy, and here I am," said the senator, smiling affably. "I suppose you can guess what this is all about."

"Careful Housewives WHEN PUTTING AWAY STOVES"

Always give them a coat of 6-5-4 to make them rust proof. It shines itself, is applied like paint, is better than any enamel for stoves, pipes or wire screens. It makes old stoves look like new.

If you haven't had it H. L. McNamara has.

"That he's going to marry Kate, of course," chimed in Ryder senior. "Jeff, my lad, I'm glad you are beginning to see my way of looking at things. You're doing more to please me lately, and I appreciate it. You stayed at home when I asked you to, and now you've made up your mind regarding this marriage."

Jefferson let his father flush his speech, and then he said calmly: "I think there must be some misapprehension as to the reason for my announcing Senator Roberts to New York. It had nothing to do with my marrying Miss Roberts, but to prevent her marriage with some one else."

"What?" exclaimed Ryder senior. "Marriage with some one else?"

The senator took the letter and as he read his face grew ashen and his hand trembled violently. At one blow all his ambitious projects for his daughter had been swept away. The financier had spoiled the carefully laid plans of a lifetime. The only consolation which remained was that the calamity might have been still more serious. This timely warning had saved his family from perhaps an even greater scandal. He passed the letter in silence to Ryder senior.

The financier was a man of few words when the situation called for prompt action. After he had read the letter through there was an ominous silence. Then he rang a bell. The butler appeared.

"Tell Mr. Bagley I want him."

The man bowed and disappeared. "Who the devil is this Bagley?" demanded the senator.

"English—blue blood—no money," was Ryder's laconic answer.

"That's the only kind we seem to get over here," growled the senator. "We furnish the money; they furnish the blood. Hang his blue blood! I don't want any in mine." Turning to Jefferson, he said: "Jefferson, whatever the motives that actuated you, I can only thank you for this warning. I think it would have broken my heart if my girl had gone away with that scoundrel. Of course, under the circumstances I must abandon all idea of your becoming my son-in-law. I release you from all obligations you may have felt yourself bound by."

Jefferson bowed and remained silent. Ryder senior eyed his son closely, an unmarked expression hovering on his face. After all, it was not so much he who had desired this match as Roberts, and as long as the senator was willing to withdraw he could make no objection.

"He wondered what part, if any, his son had played in bringing about this sensational denouncement to a match which had been so disastrous to him, and it gratified his paternal vanity to think that Jefferson after all might be smarter than he had given him credit for."

At this juncture Mr. Bagley entered the room. He was a little taken aback on seeing the senator; but, like most men of his class, his self-conceit made him confident of his ability to handle any emergency which might arise, and he had no reason to suspect that this hearty summons to the library had anything to do with his matrimonial plans.

"Did you ask for me, sir?" he demanded, addressing his employer.

"Yes, Mr. Bagley," replied Ryder, fixing the secretary with a look that filled the latter with misgivings. "What stammers leave tomorrow for England?"

"Tomorrow," echoed Mr. Bagley.

"I said tomorrow," repeated Ryder, slightly raising his voice.

"Let me see," stammered the secretary. "There is the White Star, the North German Lloyd, the Atlantic Transport."

"Have you any preference?" inquired the financier.

"No, sir, none at all."

"Then you'll go on board one of the ships tonight," said Ryder. "Your things will be packed and sent to you before the steamer sails tomorrow."

The Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, third son of a British peer, did not understand even yet that he was discharged as an unemployed householder caught in the net of a politician. He could not think what Mr. Ryder wanted him to go abroad for unless it were on some matter of business, and it was decidedly inconvenient for him to sail at this time.

"But, sir," he stammered, "I'm afraid I'm afraid."

"Yes," rejoined Ryder promptly, "I notice that your hand is shaking."

"I mean that I—"

"You mean that you have other engagements?" said Ryder sternly.

"Oh, no, no, but—"

"No engagement at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning?" insisted Ryder.

"With my daughter?" chimed in the senator.

Mr. Bagley now understood. He broke out in a cold perspiration, and he paled visibly. In the hope that the full extent of his plans were not known, he attempted to bluster it out.

"No, certainly not, under no circumstances," he said.

Ryder senior rang a bell. "Perhaps she has an engagement with you. We'll ask her." To the butler, who entered, he said, "Tell Miss Roberts that her father would like to see her here."

The man disappeared, and the senator took a hand in cross examining the now thoroughly uncomfortable secretary.

"So you thought my daughter looked pale and that a little excursion to Buffalo would be a good thing for her? Well, it won't be a good thing for you, young man, I can assure you of that!"

The English aristocrat began to wilt. His assurance of manner quite deserted him, and he stammered painfully as he floundered about in excuses.

"Not with me—oh, dear, no," he said. "You never proposed to run away with my daughter?" cried the irate father.

"Run away with her?" stammered Bagley.

"And marry her?" shouted the senator, shaking his fist at him.

"Oh, say, this is hardly fair, three against one, really, I'm awfully sorry, eh, what?"

The door opened, and Kate Roberts bounced in. She was smiling and full of animal spirits.

"You never proposed to run away with my daughter?"

of animal spirits, but on seeing the stern face of her father and the pitiable picture presented by her faithful Fitz she was intelligent enough to immediately scent danger.

"Did you want to see me, father?" she inquired boldly.

"Yes, Kate," answered the senator gravely, "we have just been having a talk with Mr. Bagley, in which you were one of the subjects of conversation. Can you guess what it was?"

The girl looked from her father to Bagley and from him to the Ryders. Her aristocratic lover made a movement forward as if to exculpate himself, but he caught Ryder's eye and remained where he was.

"Well," she said, with a nervous laugh.

"Is it true?" asked the senator, "that you were about to marry this man secretly?"

She cast down her eyes and answered: "I suppose you know everything."

"Have you anything to add?" asked her father sternly.

"No," said Kate, shaking her head.

"It's true. We intended to run away, didn't we, Fitz?"

"Never mind about Mr. Bagley," thundered her father. "Haven't you a word of shame for this disgrace you have brought upon me?"

"Oh, papa, don't be so cross. Jefferson did not care for me. I couldn't be an old maid. Mr. Bagley has a lovely estate in England, and one day he'll sit in the house of lords. He'll explain everything to you."

"He'll explain nothing," rejoined the senator grimly. "Mr. Bagley returns to England tonight. He won't have time to explain anything."

"Returns to England?" echoed Kate, dumfounded.

"Yes, and you go with me to Washington at once."

The senator turned to Ryder. "Goodby, Ryder. The little domestic comedy is ended. I'm grateful it didn't turn out a drama. The next time I pick out a son-in-law I hope I'll have better luck."

He shook hands with Jefferson and left the room, followed by his crest-fallen daughter.

Ryder, who had gone to write something at his desk, strode over to where Mr. Bagley was standing and handed him a check.

"Here, sir. This settles everything to date. Good day."

"But I—!" stammered the secretary helplessly.

"Good day, sir."

Ryder turned his back on him and conversed with his son, while Mr. Bagley slowly and as if regretfully made his exit.

Hartford claims the oldest school in the country. It was founded in 1638 by William Giddings, and was partly supported by the town and partly by tuition fees. It received bequests in 1655, 1659, 1664 and 1680, and continued under the care of the town until 1817, when it was merged with the classical department of the Hartford high school.

METHODS OF OIL TRUST ARE SCORED

SECOND REPORT ON OPERATIONS OF STANDARD COMPANY.

IT HAS RAISED PRICES

Enormous Profits Acquired by Unfair and Unjustifiable Means, Says Commissioner of Corporations Herbert K. Smith.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Significant revelations were made public Sunday in a report submitted to President Roosevelt by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, concerning the operations of the Standard Oil company.

In a previous report the means and methods of the Standard were explained. The present report sets forth the results of these methods and the effect they have had on the consumer of oil and on the profits of the Standard Oil company. It deals with profits and prices, showing just how the manipulation of the oil industry by the Standard has affected the pocket-books of the American people.

Has Raised Prices of Oil.

Commissioner Smith says: "The Standard Oil company is responsible for the course of prices of petroleum and its products during the last 25 years. The Standard has consistently used its power to raise the price of oil during the last ten years, not only absolutely, but also relatively to the cost of crude oil."

The Standard has claimed that it has reduced the price of oil; that it has been a benefit to the consumer, and that only a great combination like the Standard could have furnished oil at the prices that have prevailed. "Each one of these claims," says Commissioner Smith, "is disproved by this report."

Profits Are Enormous.

The increase in annual profits of the Standard from 1896 to 1901 was over $27,000,000. The report says: "The total dividends paid by the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were $551,322,904, averaging them 24.15 per cent. per year. The dividends, however, were much less than the total earnings. It is substantially certain that the entire net earnings of the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were at least $750,000,000, and possibly much more."

"These enormous profits have been based on an investment worth at the time of its original acquisition not more than $75,000,000."

In his letter to President Roosevelt, transmitting the report, Commissioner Smith says:

Methods of Trust Scored. "The following facts are proven: The Standard has not reduced margins during the period in which it has been responsible for the prices of oil. During the last eight years covered by this report (1898 to 1906) it has raised both prices and margins. Its domination has not been acquired or maintained by its superior efficiency, but rather by unfair competition and by methods economically and morally unjustifiable. The Standard has superior efficiency in running its own business; it has an equal efficiency in destroying the business of competitors. It keeps for itself the profits of the first and adds to those the monopoly profits secured by the second. Its profits are far above the highest possible standard of a reasonable commercial return, and have been steadily increasing. Finally, the history of this great industry is a history of the persistent use of the worst industrial methods, the exaction of exorbitant prices from the consumer, and the securing of excessive profits for the small group of men who over a long series of years have thus dominated the business."

In a few days another section of the report will be made public, setting forth the importance of price discrimination in restraining the business of competitors and augmenting the profits of the Standard.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in most instances that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These humors and acids get into the blood, generally because of an inactive and sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse of the body. This unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment, and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood, in its effort to rid itself of this foreign matter, begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin. These coming in contact with the delicate tissues and fibers with which the skin is so abundantly supplied produces irritation and inflammation on the surface, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, or some other troublesome and disfiguring skin disease is the result. External applications, while they soothe the itching, and are beneficial in keeping the skin clean, can never cure skin affections, because they do not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only permanent cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers, is the best treatment. It cures by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the circulation so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acid matter, is nourished and soothed by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, removes the foreign matter and thereby permanently cures every form of skin trouble. Do not expect to cure a blood disease with local applications alone, but begin the use of S. S. S., and when you have removed the cause the skin will be free from disease. ## Have You Heard About Alberta?

It's going to be the GREATEST stock raising region in America.

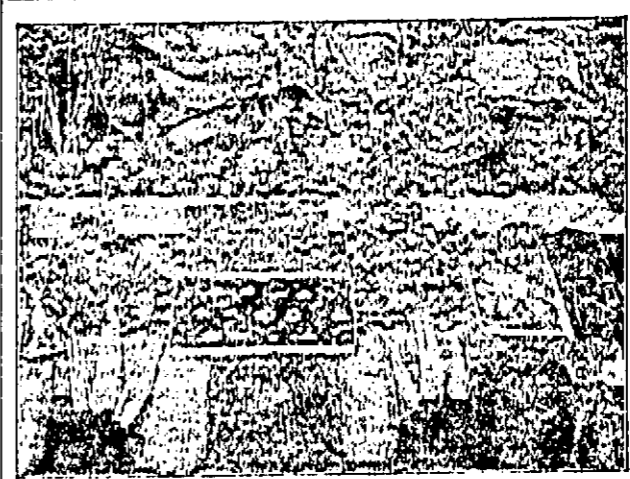

Stock raising is the most profitable and satisfactory branch of farming. The IDEAL grazing and stock region in Southern Alberta, Canada. Climate and weather conditions are so favorable that stock is kept on the range all winter and no expensive stables are needed—shed feeding is all that is necessary.

GRAZE ALL WINTER.

The snowfall is much lighter than in Wisconsin, and the grasses furnish feed for the stock all winter. Alfalfa, the best all-round forage plant, grows thickly and luxuriantly year in and year out. Once rooted, it lasts a lifetime, and you may harvest two or three crops a year. Good Alfalfa land, under irrigation, you can buy for $18.00 to $25.00 per acre.

ALL KINDS OF FARMING.

But stock raising is far from being the only

profitable purpose to which this fertile land may be put. The most desirable conditions are to be found in Southern Alberta for farming of all kinds. Alberta is YOUR opportunity. It has ALL of the advantages and NONE of the drawbacks of the most fertile farming regions in the United States.

Read what the most thoroughly posted and most competent grain man in the northwest has just written:

NEVER SAW SUCH CROPS.

"I have been vitally interested in the crops of the Northwest States for the past 15 years and never in all of my experience have I seen such crops anywhere in any country as we have here in Alberta at the present time. Conditions could not possibly have been better had they been made to order. The winter wheat crop is especially fine and promising. This does not apply to any one district in Alberta but to the entire area."

Maps, literature, and further information can be had by addressing us at any time.

EXCURSION AUGUST 6TH.

ROAD TO SUCCESS

PUBLICITY IS THE MAIL-ORDER MAN'S GREAT WEAPON.

MERCHANTS MUST ADVERTISE

"Fight Fire with Fire" and the Dollars Now Going Cityward Will Stay in the Home Community.

The merchant who would wage successful warfare against mail-order competition should study mail-order methods. The same tactics that takes the dollar out of the community will keep it at home.

And what are mail-order methods? The keynote of it all may be found in the one word—publicity. The mail-order house advertises. It does not advertise better goods at less money than the home merchant gives, but it advertises persistently. It puts its proposition before the public constantly. It recognizes no dull season in its campaign for publicity. It never lets up.

At a gathering in town some time ago a mail-order man explained some of the system followed in the campaign of publicity. According to this explanation the mail-order house seeks the line of least resistance in its search for business. Whenever they can find a town in which the merchants are not active advertisers they flood that community with their literature. When they find a town in which the furniture dealer, for example, is afraid to use printer's ink they pay particular attention to the subject of furniture. They are searching for the weakest link in the chain of home defenses.

Something of this is explained by the conditions the writer saw in a mill town in northern Wisconsin. The local paper carried practically no local advertising when the size of the town was considered, and the stores of the town were but small affairs. In talking to one of the merchants he complained that more than $25,000 was sent from that community to the Chicago mail-order houses each month. "That is easily twice the amount that is spent in all the stores in this town put together each month," he explained. "Merchandizing don't pay in such a place as this."

A few hours later the writer was talking with the publisher of the local paper, and the conversation turned to local advertising, or rather the lack of it.

"I was very much tempted to accept a proposition which I received from one of the Chicago mail-order houses a few days ago," said the publisher. "I still have the proposition here on my desk. They offer me a cash commission on all the new business secured in this county during the life of the contract. They say their business in this county during the last 12 months was approximately $8,000 per month, and I would secure a small percentage on all business done over this amount during the next 12 months."

"Have you shown that proposition to the merchants of this town?" I asked.

"I have, and it didn't move them," he replied. "They simply say it don't pay to advertise. I would jump at the offer if it were not for the fact that I cannot bring myself to the point of doing that which I know will help to kill this community."

There was an illustration of mail-order methods. The wide-awake mail-order man proposed to reap a golden harvest from the field the very much-sleep local merchant would not cultivate.

The Koran. The Koran consists of 114 suras or chapters. Each chapter begins "In the name of the most merciful God." Buy it in Jamestown.

Does it pay to advertise? The more than $200,000,000 that finds its way to the Chicago mail-order houses each year is garnered by a campaign of advertising. You, Mr. Local Merchant, claim, and rightly, that you can sell the same goods for the same, or less money, than the mail-order houses offer, but at the same time you complain because the mail-order man gets the business. Why do they get it? Because they advertise.

They not only advertise, but they advertise in your field, and they advertise in your field because you do not. They select towns, or special lines where they do not have to meet the competition that is offered by local advertising, and they make advertising pay.

We want the people to trade at home; we want them to build up the home community; we want to see the dollars kept in circulation here that one and all of the local people may prosper. We do not want to see the fortunes of the city mail-order man built at the expense of the local community, but we know absolutely the value of publicity, and we know the mail-order houses will capture the dollars if the local merchants will not fight fire with fire; will not show the public what they can buy and at what price.

Let us go back to this northern Wisconsin town and see what opportunities the merchants there were sacrificing. It was a mill town, and in no way an agricultural community. There were not 20 farms within a radius of as many miles. The industry was lumber, and the money to run the mills came from the city. The nearly 1,000 employees were paid in city money, and with a little effort on the part of the merchants in that town this money might have been kept in the town. It might have been made to build a permanent prosperity. But

It is there is one place the newly-arrived immigrant is not needed it is in the large cities where a large portion of the incoming horde has shown a tendency to herd. Especially is this true of New York, where over eight-tenths of the immigration to this country is landed. This concentration of the multitudes from every nation and clime in the already congested portion of the city is a disease-breeding and crime-encouraging condition, and is doing more to delay the healthy assimilation of the immigrant and hinder his development into a useful American citizen than any other circumstance. Concentration of the newly-arrived foreign element in the large cities of the country is a real menace to the future of those cities and the country at large. The federal government has long realized this and has at last determined on steps looking to a correction of this tendency. Instead of concentration we are to have dissemination. Instead of letting them take root in the cities to grow up a foreign plant in American soil, the effort is to be made to broadcast them over the sections of the country where better living can be had for them and where their Americanization will be made more easy and certain.

The plan devised under the direction of Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, is to establish a division of information under the immigration bureau, whose purpose shall be to place the immigrant coming to this country in the place where he is needed and wanted. It is expected that this new department will be ready to begin work by the first of July, and already useful information regarding the resources, products and physical characteristics of each state and territory is being gathered and tabulated, preparatory to being published in different languages so that it may be placed in the hands of the incoming aliens as soon as they land and may aid them in choosing a place and a destiny in the wonderful promised land to which they have come with such expectant hope.

As a further means of bringing states that want immigrants, and immigrants that want homes into touch with each other, the plan further provides that the states and territories will be permitted to send to the immigrant stations agents who shall be given access to all newly admitted aliens. These official promoters will point out to the newcomers the special inducements for settlement offered by their respective states.

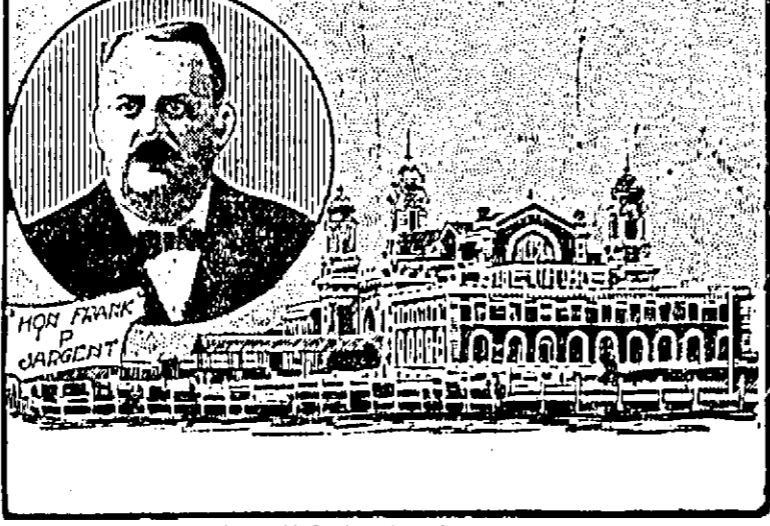

Some of the states, particularly those of the south, already maintain immigration bureaus, and these will appoint the agents sent to the immigrant stations. Other states desiring immigrants are expected to organize such bureaus before July 1. Practically the whole of this educational campaign will be waged at the Ellis Island station, New York. Through its portals passed last year 880,000 of the 1,357,000 aliens admitted to this land of ours.

How very badly immigrants are wanted in many sections of the south and west is disclosed in the urgent appeals which Mr. Sargent has been receiving. These come especially from agriculturists, mine owners, manufacturers and railroad officials. A majority of our immigrants are pouring into the sections where they are least wanted and where the least chance of work awaits them, while they are avoiding the sections where they would be welcomed with open arms and given remunerative employment. Just how this is will be seen by the figures for last year. Over seven-tenths of those passing through the immigrant stations said they were going to settle in already thickly populated centers, and all of this while the clamor for immigrants was coming from thinly populated districts. Over one-third of these aliens said they were going to make their abodes in New York state; more than one-sixth in Pennsylvania, and one-twelfth in Illinois. Almost as many declared themselves bound for Massachusetts, and next ranked New Jersey.

The south in particular wants immigration now. Formerly it desired nothing less. Its change of sentiment on this subject has been both recent and marked. It offers a splendid field for the newcomer with brawn and energy. It has millions of acres of cotton, cane, rice and tobacco lands that have never been cultivated. Indeed, Louisiana alone has 15,000,000 acres of vacant land out of a total of 26,000,000, and it is estimated that not more than one-eighth of the cotton lands of the whole south is under cultivation. In Louisiana there are more than a hundred immigration societies and in Maryland there are still more. But neither these nor the similar organizations in other southern states are looking for the Hungarians and Russians now flocking into the north in superabundance. The south has been calling for the good old Teutonic and Celtic stock which settled the country in its first days—the English, Irish, Welsh, Scotch and Germans, in particular. Yet, climatically speaking, the Italians are, of all of our immigrants, those best suited to the south, and moreover they now constitute the largest class of our immigrants. The supply of these far exceeds the demand, in the north. They have proved to be successful farmers where they have so far settled in the southern cotton and sugar plantations. The great lumbering companies of the south are also employing them and it is estimated that more than 100,000 are working in the southern Mississippi valley. They have begun to purchase little farms, to build good homes and to put money in the banks. They are found to be prompt in paying debts, and to have improved morally as well as financially since arriving. The younger of these Italians who desire to return to Italy, which desire has caused their race to be generally disliked in America.

It would seem as though the crown of the old world's peasantry is now nearly skimmed off. Lately there has been a significant increase of persons who under the old law have had to be passed by the immigration surgeons, but who have been marked as "poor physique." This marking has implied that the subject has been underdeveloped, has feeble heart action, arteries below the standard size, etc. In other words, as one of the surgeons explains, that he has been physically degenerate.

It is to keep these degenerates out that the law gives the examiners far greater scope than ever before for refusing entrance. The degenerate himself is not only unlikely to become a desirable citizen, but it is very likely that he will transmit his undesirable qualities to his offspring. By admitting such aliens we vastly increase our number of public charges. "That the physical and mental quality of the aliens we are now receiving is much below that of those who have come in former years is evident," says Commissioner General Sargent. He recently instituted an investigation of the charitable institutions of the country, and actually found 30,000 alien paupers, including lunatics, in our public institutions, besides 5,000 of them supported at public expense. In addition he found in these institutions about 65,000 naturalized foreigners, but the most striking fact gathered by the commissioner general was that while in the United States there are 75 citizens to each alien there are in our insane asylums and poorhouses only six citizens to each alien.

The Music of Man and Birds. If the discovery of independent evolutions of human music all tending in the same direction indicates the existence of an ideal standard toward which progress leads, how much stronger is the evidence afforded by the fact that bird music is developed along the same lines! It seems a far cry from a Beethoven symphony or a Wagnerian opera to the simple law of a sparrow, but as we trace the course of the mighty river of music back toward its source the stream becomes narrower and narrower, until it is contracted to a point where it is no broader than the little rill of bird music, written Henry Oldie's in Harp's. Nor does the decrease stop there; for, remarkable as it may seem, there was a time when the music from which ours has been evolved was inferior to some of that which floats to our ears from the woods of spring. This is not to say merely that the songs of certain birds involve more intervals and greater variety, but that they are of a higher order, judged by our own modern standards.

Large Sum for Luxuries. About $50,000 is annually spent for cigars and wines consumed in the large clubs of New York city.

The Mourning Dove. Two white eggs occupy the mourning dove's home, which stands for the poorest sort of bird housekeeping.

Isolation.

(Original.) The meeting was to hear of efforts being made in the cause of prison reform. Among those who were to speak was Julia Kennard, a lady who had been convicted of killing her uncle with a hatchet and had served twelve years in prison. When the speakers came on to the platform, I picked her out at once by the lines of suffering on her face. I watched her closely, questioning myself as to her bearing if guilty. If innocent, she gave no clue. She did not assume a brazen look or wear either a guilty or a penitent one. She changed her position often, as though it were an effort for her to face so many upturned faces. Could she do so at all, especially on a number of occasions, if she were a murderer? I did not believe she could.

When she rose to speak, she looked out upon her audience much as any other woman would who had spoken before from the rostrum. Few women and comparatively few men can make an address, especially an extemporaneous one. Mrs. Kennard spoke slowly, distinctly, every word expressing that which it was intended to express, and what she said was of interest. Her voice was feminine, melodious and did not impress me unpleasantly, as the voices of women public speakers usually do. On the contrary, it won me. She was evidently a worker in the cause of prison reform and gave results of her labors interspersed with a few brief experiences of her own prison career. She did not refer to her guilt or innocence or blame any one for what she had suffered. When she came to the close of her address, she said that she could not have faced us had she not felt that we were her friends. She had already won my sympathy. This last statement appealed to my reason. A guilty woman could not have spoken those words as she spoke them.

I went home and to bed, but not to sleep. That sad face was before me. I heard the sympathetic voice. A prison has always been a horror to me, and my mind was filled with pictures of the huddlements of refinement and clothed in prison garb, her wealth of hair cut, and, thus degraded, thrust mercilessly into a cell.

My resolution was taken. I must see Mrs. Kennard, must speak with her, know her. I found no trouble in making her acquaintance. She knew a number of people prominent in the work of prison reform, and I was introduced to her by one of these. I made an effort to establish between her and me such a friendship, intimacy—call it love, if you will—that might have existed had it not been for her conviction of crime, her imprisonment. I signally failed. She was a thing apart. All of an ordinary life for her had been lived before she had been held up to the world as accused of a criminal act. But one interest had any hold upon her—the amelioration of the condition of prisoners. She never spoke of her own case except in relation to this object. I waited to hear her mention some incident that tended to show her innocence, but no reference to the justice or injustice of her conviction ever came from her lips. One day I said to her:

"Let me hear from your own lips that a great mistake was made in your case; that you were innocent of the charge of which you were convicted."

She looked at me with a singular expression, an expression of no emotion. There was no sorrow in it more than the habitual sorrow that always clung to her. And she said:

"Would you know any more than you know now?"

"Not by reason; by confidence."

"A confidence dead as soon as born. No; were it possible for you to have that confidence you would never have asked me to speak the words. If I could inspire you with confidence today, tomorrow you would be considering the pros and cons in my case, whether this or that act of mine deserved guilt or innocence. There is but one secret I cannot impart to an individual or to the world—the secret you have asked of me."

I left her with, it seemed, an icy hand gripping at my heart. I burned to convince myself, the world, that she was a wronged woman. If I could not, it seemed that I would go mad. Then I would say, "Why, even could I do this I could not remove the stain, the notoriety, the brand of felony."

Then I made up my mind that I must choose a path that should not again cross hers. A lover dabbled his love may tell it and the reason why he must resign the object of it. What was there for me to tell? Love? How can there be love without perfect confidence? My reasons? What reason that she did not know? I loved, yet could not love her. I could love another man's wife and if necessary fight for her—make a criminal of myself for her—or I could love her and live innocent, treasuring my secret in my heart. But this woman on whose life a seal had been set—how could I love her? And yet there were times when I feared for my reason because I could not.

Without alien or far-well I came to visit her. I changed my residence. It seems that I have been touched by a leper and am set apart where I can infect no one. In another case even this might be a bond between us, but there can be no bond with one who, even while she is driven snow, has been branded.

Whatever she has been, innocent or guilty, she is now an angel of mercy.
